In Dedication . . .

To a very special woman who was brave enough to accept the challenge as our class advisor after nobody else would, we would like to say thank-you. Mrs. Janet Julian was the third teacher who attempted to organize and advise the class of 1984; thanks to her optimism, wit, and generosity our class became united and successful. By offering her experience, leadership and friendship to each member of the class we worked together through the laughter and the tears. Mrs. Julian cleverly helped us to discover our limitations, to develop our personalities, and to achieve goals beyond our expectations. In addition to this, Mr. Julian unselfishly donated her time to assist us with everything from car washes and bake sales to T-shirt sales and cheese and sausage fund raisers. Without her talents and organizational skills, the major events of our senior year including class trip, class night, and graduation could have never been as memorable to us as they will be for the rest of our lives.

Although we may never be able to fully express our gratitude for all that Mrs. Julian has done for the Class of '84; we would like to say once again, "Thanks, Mrs. J.!"

What is a friend?

A friend is someone very dear, who shares your hopes and dreams.

Who shows you that the grayest day is brighter than it seems.

Someone who overlooks your faults, and likes you as you are, who will always keep in touch with you whether you're near or far.

A friend is one who brings you happiness that lasts a lifetime through, I know, for that's the kind of friend I found when I met you.

Chantale Peters

Remember . . .

When Jamey "accidentally" pushed Tom H. through the wall outside Mrs. Bates room?
When Chantale and Kelley painted the spirit of "84"?
When Ricky had his first beer?
When Karen Knapik's favorite word in an oral report was "um"?
When Roger Joncas flunked his senior math quiz?
When Nancy thought she saw lightning, but it was more serious (oink)?
When Mike Sills didn't have lips at Gumby's?
When Sue Nicalek ordered a small-medium coke?
When Lisa Bahosh sprayed hair spray in Traci's mouth?
When Leanne got a three in conduct from Mr. Prunier?
When Katie Maynard burned her sweater in chemistry lab?
When Tootie said "good morning" to Mr. Blanchard every morning?
When Ellen Kuchinsky got a punk hairdo?
When Kelly Perkins was a pregnant nun?
When Eric Bellerive wore his leather pants? . . . The senior girls do!!
When Tim Mahoney fell off the wagon during the hayride?

“We’ve Got Style”

Throughout the four years that the Class of '84 has attended GHS, we've exhibited quite a variety of fashions. The styles of clothing have changed considerably since our Freshman year. Several of these fashion trends include the styles of the conservative preppies and the wild punks. Although many of us (especially the girls) have received scornful glances from certain individuals, these trends have continued to change and become increasingly more strange as our high school years passed.

When we were timid Freshmen, many of our classmates dressed in a preppy style with turned-up collars, kelley green trutle necks, and dock sider shoes. However, the majority of our class tired quickly of these expensive IZOD's and LLBean clothing items, and remained content with our Levis and flannels, and skirts below the knees.

As we completed our first year of high school our timidity began to wear off and the wild styles began to wear on. The girls' skirts began to shorten and the guy's sleeves were cut off. Many of the old fashioned dress codes were violated but even a few of the teachers were committing the violations. Hair styles changed dramatically and the accessories were definitely punk. In addition to the multi-colored bandnas tied from head to toe, the styles of shoes ranged from spike heeled pumps to plain white sneakers.

Along with the eccentric fashions we developed throughout our four years at Grafton High, in our Senior year we saw women wearing men's clothing and vice versa. However, the men at GHS were never as stylistically bold as the women!

The Music Scene

The new decade has brought many changes in the musical department. The predominant one is the means by which new songs and bands are introduced to the public. In the past the primary source was the radio, but now it is the television, MTV (Music Television), and other video programs which enable us to see and hear our favorite musicians performing in concert and enacting the meanings of their songs. Because of music videos, many English bands have become very popular here in the United States; so popular that their influence upon our culture has been called "The English Invasion."

Some of these invaders are Boy George (who definitely is a man, just as Mrs. Bates!) and other members of Culture Club, the fab five from Birmingham — Duran Duran, the sexy Adam Ant, the wild and spike-haired Billy Idol, the famous trio The Police, the bizarre Annie Lennox and Dave Stewart who constitute the Eurythmics, MTV's all time video champions — Def Leppard, Genesis, the Fixx, and David Bowie. Other very popular foreign acts include Bryan Adams, the Rolling Stones, Yes, The Who, and Loverboy.

Although there are many foreign groups which are well-liked here in the U.S., there are also several American bands which are very popular. Providing us with a variety of music, such musicians as Huey Lewis and the News, Van Halen, Journey, ZZ Top, Quiet Riot, Cyndi Lauper, and of course Michael Jackson, have acquired nationwide recognition.

All of these musicians have contributed to today's culture by writing songs about life, death, war, freedom, and love which correspond to us and our personal experiences. The musical scene during our years of high school can be described in a few words: WAAF, videos, concerts, MTV, the Centrum in Worcester, and Boy George!

Life in the Fast Food Lane

"Aren't you hungry for . . ." Even those of you who are watching your weight have experienced life in the fast food lane. Although the plethora of Big Macs, Whoppers, Big Beefs, etc. may be considered as a dieter's death and a nutritional no-no, this type of food is convenient for the majority of people who live a life in the fast food lane.

Of course, we deeply appreciated these chains of stores and restaurants in our Senior year since we found ourselves with less and less time on our hands. It was very easy for us to jump into a car and cruise to Micky D's or the King for a quick meal. If the financial situation was not up to our usual standards, three hot dogs for $1.00 and a bag of funyons saved a few cents in gas money and time. Also, the Xtra Mart was always conveniently open for those midnight munchie runs.

Opposing the "after hours" scene, many of our classmates experienced the early morning munchies. It always seemed as though one of us had an insatiable appetite as the first bell rang. Believe it or not, there were rare occasions when Abdow's and Friendly's saw our faces in front of their menus instead of our English teachers seeing them in front of our text books.

Just Another Typical Weekend

Because we were often more concerned with what was going on Friday and Saturday nights than we were with our homework, the halls often echoed with a familiar phrase, "What are you doing this weekend?". So what usually happened on these two incredibly precious days of the week?

If no one was willing to risk the safety of home and valuables to throw a party, the next plan of action would have been to check out the party "spots," Soap Hill and Gumby Woods. In the rare event that these were vacant, the fun seekers might have cruised past the Mart or Xtra Mart looking for loose ends to tie up with. Hungry, we'd drive down "Fast Food Boulevard," or Grafton Street as it's commonly called.

Later we'd go to Worcester to a movie. The romantically inclined would then park at the Center School, Old Saw Mill Road, Willard Clock Museum, or the Mass. Pike Bridge. The unattached would wander home. Most weekends for the class of '84 were nomadic.

Everybody's Working for the Weekend

Reflecting the state of the general economy, the cost of high school usually exceeds our ready supply of cash. So where do we turn for funds? Beyond the upturned palms of mom and dad lies a myriad of available positions for those of us ready, willing, and able to hack out a part time profession in the midst of Chemistry homework, basketball games and play rehearsal. Many find that babysitting and mowing lawns, the time-worn institutions of teenage part time employment are no longer sufficient, and we are forced to swell the ranks' of area businesses. High schoolers find employment at eateries like McDonald's, Friendly's, Papa Gino's, Wendy's, the Dairy Freeze, and the Grafton House. Others resort to cashiering at local stores and folding clothes at Tempo Fashions, Caldors, Spags, and the Mart. Others with imagination try package stores, super markets like Julios or Price-Rite, and hardware stores. The service oriented may choose from pumping gas, painting cars, data collection for the Town Hall, or working in veterenary research! Some opt for catering, nursing home work, or industry, such as Chase Paper or Bay State Abrasives. The hardier sort may prefer painting or construction work.

Dispite the diversity of the jobs we hold, there is unity among us. Overworked and underpaid, we scratch out funds for social security, FICA, gas, and, oh, yeah — our spending money!

Prognosis: Funds are Low

A free public education they call it huh? Well maybe that's true if the student is

- a) a firm believer that sports and dances are for the birds
- b) a violator of class dues
- c) a non-eater
- d) etc.

Let's take a look at why the majority of the students have some source of money throughout the four high school years whether it's babysitting jobs, paper routes, part-time jobs, or good ol' mom and dad!

class dues	$ 10.00 per year
boys football and basketball games	$ 1.00 per game
the famous dances	$ 3.00
the Janet Julian gift shop	$ 6.00 average for shirt
	$ 2.00 for painter hats

“Rage In The Cage — The Subs. In Today!

Ah, the substitute teacher, subject for innumerable high school pranks and teenage comedians . . . As the students enter, she is carefully printing her name on the front board, alongside the date, period and room number (and we're supposed to be seniors!) She has prepared a short lesson that she hopes will inspire lively, intellectual discussion and has dismissed the idea of using the teacher's lesson plan.

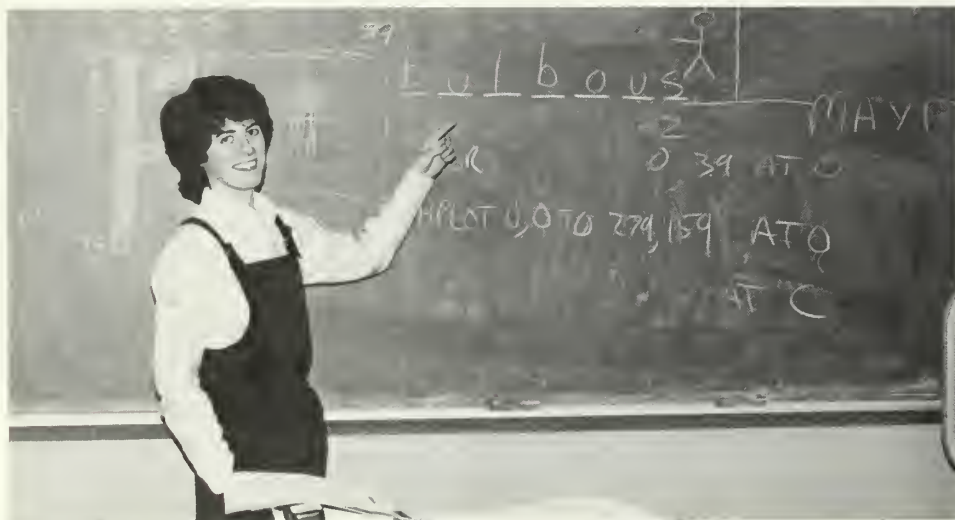

After quieting the students (now 10 minutes remaining in the class) she takes attendance. OPPS — Billy is late! Billy doesn't need a late pass because he has a good excuse — his mother died on the way to school! The sub accepts the excuse and class continues.

“Pass the homework forward.” Oh — Mary's is in her locker and Johnny forgot his at home. Bob's dog ate his and Wayne didn't know there was any homework. Wait! What's going on in the corner? Joe is copying Rita's work! Sean is eating Drake's cakes and Patty's gossiping with Helen.

“O.K. Clear your desks because it's time for a test.” Following groans of disgust . . . Jane goes to the bathroom, Roger goes for a drink, and Sarah can't find a pencil. While the kids take the test, many eyes wander around the nearby desks. Believing that the students are just day-dreaming, the substitute returns to her work. The bell rings and they pass their papers forward and exit with cordial nods and grins. The sub smiles at her success.

“But wait . . . you forgot to put your name on your test! Hey you did too! Hey! Hey! Wait! . . .”

Rough, Tough, Stuff

"Oh, no — not the power play"

"Have a nice trip. Maureen. See ya next fall!"

"Does she really expect us to score with that strategy?"

After losing fifteen seniors, the '83-'84 field hockey team was not a complete success. However, spirits were kept alive by the active participation and enthusiasm of the Tri-Captains, Kelley Angel, Michele Faford, and Katie Maynard and the Spirit Captains Maureen Flaherty and Mary-Ellen Trainor. The '83-'84 field hockey team adopted the motto "It's not whether you win or lose, it's how you play the game." They had a great time while upholding the Grafton traditions of class and sportsmanship. Their record for the season was 8-9-1.

Although the boys' cross country team suffered various injuries this year, they ended their season with a record of 10-4. The young team ran extremely well at the Southern Worcester County League meet, capturing first place. They also finished fourth at the Wachusett Invitational and a respectable 17th at the District E meet. Peter Joncas, Ted Girard, and Mike Dame were well supported by the underclassmen in this successful season.

"I'll take that, thank-you!"

Girls' Cross Country

"I can't believe that they talked me into this ..."

"Do these really improve the waistline??"

Although the girls' cross-country team experienced some organizational difficulties at the beginning of the season, the final result was five hardworking teammates who were willing to try, regardless of adversaries. The team's seniors, Heather Nicholson, Sue McDermid, and Lisa Bartucca, combined efforts with freshmen Christine Gravel and sophomore Lisa Tillitson. An unfortunate injury kept would-be-teammate Lisa Bahosh from actively participating, but she supported the team by attending every meet. Although the girls' record was not outstanding, mile times were greatly improved as the season progressed and a general feeling of good health and good spirit was enjoyed by all.

Grafton Indians on the move.

"I don't want to hear it."

The Grafton High football team ended a disappointing season with looks of promise toward years to come. Although they ended the season at 3-7, the Indians played aggressively throughout. The season started off well with a 20-6 victory over Oxford; however, numerous injuries, including a dislocated elbow to Captain Rick Garabedian, contributed to the Indians' poor record. For the remainder of the season seniors Joe L'Esperance, Dan Brosnihan, Mike Sills, and Captain Neal Ouellette provided leadership for the young team. Highlights of the year included the Indians' thrashing of Millbury 27-16 and a late-season 13-0 victory over a good Uxbridge squad.

Football Cheering

"Hey, somebody's gotta help 'em win this game!"

Leading the Varsity Football cheering squad this year were tri-captains Gisele Charest, Ellen Kuchinsky and Michelle Pigaga along with the assistance of Coach Brenda Millette. Although the fighting Indians did not have a winning season, the squad continued to liven up the fans with their peppy cheers and bright smiles through rain, hail, sleet, and snow . . . especially rain. In addition to the traditional pep rally, decorating of the Senior players' houses, and the steak and eggs breakfast, the football cheerleaders started a J.V. squad captained by Senior Traci Casale.

Basketball Cheering

Throughout the 1984 basketball season the cheerleaders showed a great deal of pep and enthusiasm for their Indians. Their biggest challenge was competing in the highly competitive David Prouty Tournament. Co-captains Michelle Pigaga and Traci Casale and Senior member Patty Hussey struggled to make their cheer flawless. Their hard work paid off when they captured third place in the competition. Junior Kim Reed received the Miss Cheerleader award. Their achievements gave Coach Brenda Millette much to be proud of.

"Which hoop is ours?"

"I think I can, I think I can . . ."

Swish!

Let it roll around the rim, and fall in.

This year's basketball team had an outstanding year, rising from last place to second place and missing the district playoffs by only 2 ½ percentage points. Sparked by the leadership of their three seniors Roger Joncas, Rick Garabedian and Joe L'Esperance, the Indians finished with a record of 9-7.

The highlight of the year was a fourteen point comeback in the fourth quarter of the game against Northbridge. The men provided more basketball enjoyment this year than has been seen in past years at Grafton High. With many young hopefuls, the team should improve even more next year.

The 1983-1984 girls' basketball team played a disappointing, yet productive season. Led by coach Nelson, co-captains Leanne Gravel and Sheila Farrell, and senior Lisa Bartucca, the girls finished the year with a decent record. Although they had a rough season due to the youth of the team, they played tough and challenged many good squads. Working hard and maintaining high spirits, the Indians made the most of their season working to prepare for next year's team.

"Would you believe that it really worked"

The ice hockey team had a very interesting '83-'84 season. Although their record was 2-13, many promising aspects arose during the year. First, the team was introduced to a new type of hockey style. Mr. Lindberg, their coach, taught the club a number of new game techniques which motivated this year's players and educated the future members. Second, the Indians were forced to play a more competitive schedule due to the termination of Southern Worcester County League. Throughout the season, Grafton played well and gave many of the Midland League teams tough games. The hockey team showed great drive and spirit, led by Co-Captains John Didonna and Pat Inman. The remaining seniors, Ray Morgan, Steve David, Ted Girard, Dave Erikson and Mike Dame, and the rest of the players skated as a unified squad, finishing a productive season.

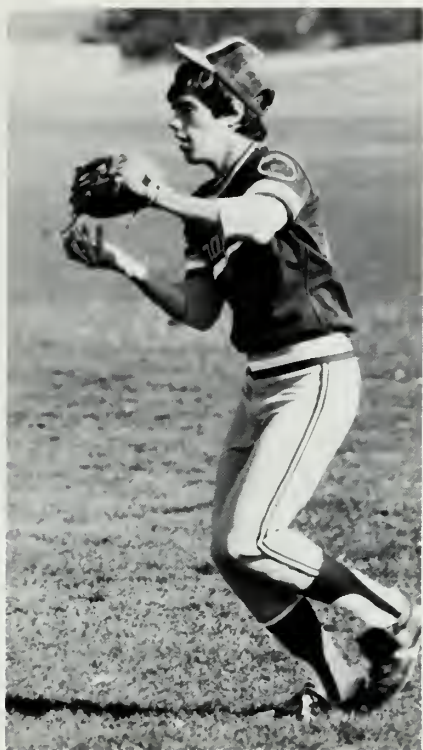

A black and white photograph capturing a dynamic moment during a baseball game. In the foreground, a player wearing a dark jersey with the number 12 and a light-colored helmet is sliding into a base, creating a large cloud of dust. A fielder in a light-colored uniform is crouched in front of the base, ready to catch the ball. Another player is visible in the background. The scene is set on a grassy field with a fence and trees in the distance.

It's not over yet.

Keep your eyes on the ball.

Although the softball team had no senior members this year, it did have a successful season. With a record of 10 wins and 5 losses, the Grafton girls took second place in the Southern Worcester County League. Being led by four returning players, Mary Mahassel, Carol Sweeney, Sue Tighe and Maria Hageman, the team was able to beat every other team in the league except Oxford. Also contributing to the team's success were starting juniors Chris Jones and Michelle Pietrewicz and freshmen Lisa Hauk, Dawn Nangle and Tracy Wellman. Other players who joined in the team's effort were Dawn Caputo, Heidi Chase, Pam Coroda, Becky Patterson, and Kim Wahlgren.

Good Luck!

"Is there a hole in my racket?"

Girls' Tennis

The '84 season was one of major rebuilding for the girls' tennis team because most top players had graduated. As the league matches began, the inexperienced team worked hard and play improved. They defeated David Prouty for their only victory. The surprise for this year's team was Lisa Nichols, a junior from Connecticut. Coach Barlow expects Tammy Frederico, Nancy Mara, and Laura Auger, all freshmen, to be major factors next year.

Boys' Tennis

"What do you mean? That was in!"

"Give me a break, it was a rough night."

Spring '84 was a successful season for the boys' tennis team. For the first time, the guys played under the guidance of Mr. Gareau, the girls' team's former coach. The team's only loss was an away game with Uxbridge, which they countered with a win with the same team at home. They won thirteen of the fourteen games played, and entered the districts where they lost to Westford. Co-captains Dave Tebo and Ted Johnson led the team to victory, followed by Tom Winalski and Keith Morrisette in first doubles. The team was well represented by underclassmen. With their help the team enjoyed a season Grafton can be proud of. Each team member was awarded a "letter" of achievement in appreciation.

"No, these aren't too heavy"

"Gee, only 10 miles to go!"

The girls' track team of 1984 surprised even themselves as their wins continued to outnumber their losses. Lead by tri-captains Kelly Perkins, Sheila Farrell, and Lisa Bartucca, the team combined their efforts and talents to produce an excellent season. The Grafton girls' team tied for third in the S.W.C.L. meet. Although the entire team displayed their talents, special recognition goes to Buffy Wilson for her sprinting abilities, Sheila Farrell for javelin, Kris Gravel for her versatility, and Chrissy Croteau for long distance running. Although the girls did not enjoy the degree of success of earlier teams, the season was most enjoyable and many good times were shared by all.

Boys' Cross Country

This spring, the boys' track team spent most of its time building for next year. With only three returning seniors and numerous new underclassmen, the boys strived for a successful season but fell short. Many fine athletes including Mike Hazeltine, Charlie Butkus, Steve Wojnar, Rick Garabedian, and Mike Sills, helped to place a tough fourth in the Southern Worcester County League meet and the Districts track meet. All season the boys met their fierce competition with Grafton spirit and pride.

Ski Trip

Sugarloaf, USA

On February 10, 1984, the Grafton High Students were loading their luggage and ski equipment onto the chartered bus in the school's parking lot. In addition to the 25 Grafton students, there were 2 Shrewsbury students, and three chaperones all filled with anticipation. They arrived in Maine six hours later and after assigning rooms and unpacking, they explored the beautiful mountainside.

They awoke early the following morning ready for a full day of skiing. The conditions were excellent and the day started off perfectly. However, all good things must come to an end, and the casualties began to occur. Within two days of skiing, the skiers managed to acquire seven stitches, a twisted knee, a broken wrist, a sprained arm, and a terribly scratched face. Although their days were filled with excitement, the nights were quite uneventful. After a day of skiing, sledding, and snowball fighting, everyone was exhausted and turned in early.

By Sunday the weather had turned, and with all the injuries everyone was ready to go home. With the memories of this winter wonderland, they boarded the bus for the long journey back to Grafton.

Reflections

Reflecting on four years can be made into a trite recollection of good and bad times. Writing an essay on this subject usually results in the same thing. However, taking a general viewpoint allows one to "skirt" around this problem as well as providing one with the chance to deliver a message.

When we entered Grafton High School in 1980, Jimmy Carter was president, the price of crude oil was still ridiculous, our embassy was captured in Tehran, personal computers were new on the market, and the space shuttle was waiting for its first launch. Needless to say — but it will be said — we have seen some changes. Not all of these changes have affected us directly though. But such events as the passing of Proposition 2½, less Federal Government funding of public schools, and the installation of new lockers did.

Yet, if we were to decrease the radius of our reflections to the activities of Grafton High students we would open the proverbial door to a more personal array of events. Recall how you felt when you first entered G.H.S in September of 1980. The upperclassmen were people that we had looked up to, or heard about, or merely been friends with, or perhaps it was our first encounter with them. But when you passed an upperclassman in the hallway you felt different, and you were always waiting for the Seniors to graduate so that you could move up a level. As the year progressed we earned some of their respect as we played sports with them, performed with them, and sat in class with some of them, and partied with them. Then, they graduated.

As Sophomores we felt accustomed to the high school rhythm. Now there was a class under us and the teachers knew who we were (some of us were known personally, others by reputation). For some of us, our Sophomore year will be remembered as our most difficult year. For others of us, it was our easiest. In our Sophomore year we saw the advent of dressing in costumes on Halloween, Spirit Weeks, Spring Fling, and the original "Warrior Variety Show." Athletics were becoming easier as skills, forms and attitudes became more accentuated. We were veterans of mid-terms and finals, and we were ready to become Juniors.

In our Junior year all non-Pre-A.P. English students were introduced to the dreaded "Quarter-Course" which, it should be noted, was originally designed by Attila the Hun as a training instrument for quick learning. At any rate, after having our schedules butchered we were ready to settle for anything solid. Yet another introduction for us was the double-lab period on Chemistry. This was an exceptional learning experience for those of us in Mr. Prunier's class, for it taught us that reading instructions does help. During this year we began to pull together and realize that everyone is the same, has the same doubts, fears and disappointments. It is this fact which made our class slightly more "special." Then we became Seniors.

Senioritis struck a few of us in early September, this was quickly noticed by several teachers. For the first time in our class's history, we retained an Advisor for two consecutive years. For the sake of prosperity, may our gratitude be noted here. Mrs. Julian, we truly appreciate all of your efforts. There was one upset in our last year. Unfortunately, the Thanksgiving Day football game with West Boylston was lost. Some traditions must be broken. But with the ascension to Seniorship came many great honors: Senior Privilege, breakfast before school, Senior skip day, and understandable laziness. When the Graduation countdown in Mrs. Dadah's room dropped below twenty, I had to look back (and write this). Some friendships were broken, new — and good — ones made in their stead. We have all been through many disappointments and frustrations, but some barriers have been successfully demolished as well. We have seen many changes in our world. But we have also seen changes within ourselves and our peers. Some were for the better, some for the worse. We have realized many things about people, but remained blind to others. No criticism can be made, though. Mistakes are all part of "growing up," and that was what High School was meant to aid us with: maturing.
